CRACKS RACE AT AQUEDUCT

HIGH NOON OUTSPEEDS PHOSPHOR AGAIN AND DEFEATS HIM WITH LITTLE TROUBLE.

Yankee Notions Scores from Lady Rotha and Montresor in the Rockaway Selling Stakes—Leo Skolny a Winner.

New York, July 7.—The colors of James Butler were twice carried to victory at Aqueduct today when Variety and High Noon won their respective races. High Noon's victory, which came in the fourth race and which was a handicap at seven-eighths, was the most popular one of the afternoon and when he came back to the stand after leading Phosphor home, he was heartily cheered. High Noon lead from start to finish and the fractional time showed the race to have been a fast run one. Yankee Notions won the Rockaway Selling Stakes at three-quarters over Lady Rotha and Montresor. He was a heavily backed favorite and after racing into the lead held Lady Rotha safe to the end. Leo Skolny, showing much speed, led all the way in the fifth, although he was put to a hard drive in the final strides to withstand the rush of Harry Shaw. Butwell, on the latter, tried to go through on the inside when entering the stretch, but was cut off by the winner. He then made his move on the outside and just failed to get up. Butwell lodged a claim of foul, which was not allowed. Volant led a hand of platers home in the sixth race and Bonny Laddie accounted for the steeplechase.

Harry Lee, a gentleman rider from Boston, has been granted a trainer's license and will hereafter train his own steeplechase horses. Jockeys W. J. O'Brien, T. Henry and F. Judy arrived from Latonia. Henry will ride for James MacManus and Judy will ride for Mose Goldblatt. Both are apprentices.

The stables of M. Goldblatt and W. Perkins have arrived at Belmont Park from Latonia. Jockey R. Upphart, whom E. T. Colton brought here from Kentucky, has been quite ill with acute bronchitis and has been confined to a hospital for a week.

Ralph Yanke, a brother of W. G. Yanke, is an arrival and states that practically all of the horses belonging to the latter have been turned out for the summer at Latonia.

W. R. Mizell has wired for eleven stalls at the Jamaica track. His string, including Robert Bradley, will arrive in a few days from Latonia. Six carloads of horses from Latonia will arrive in New York en route to Saratoga tomorrow. They will include fourteen belonging to W. J. Young, twenty of J. W. Schorr's, fourteen of T. C. McDowell's and twelve of H. H. Hewitt's.

The horses of Thomas Hitchcock will leave for Saratoga Monday.

J. E. Madden will ship twelve horses, mostly young stock, to Lexington tomorrow.

Aqueduct work-outs over a good track this morning were:

Beverly James—Half mile in 51%. Buckhorn—Mile and an eighth in 2:02. Borax—Three-eighths in 38%. Edith Olga—Half mile in 50. Goodwood—Five-eighths in 1:04. Jerry Jr.—Five-eighths in 1:05. CURRENT NOTES OF THE TURF.

Celandria, winner of the Clover Stakes at Aqueduct Monday is a sister to Coquette, winner of the same event last season.

August Belmont, seldom a visitor to Aqueduct, was present there on Monday to see his colors carried by Malachite and Rock View.

James Blute, a successful trainer half a dozen years ago, has been commissioned to purchase a racing stable for a South American sportsman.

Jockey C. Hughes has joined the stable which R. C. Benson is training for James Butler, his father having obtained his release from the Whitney stable.

S. C. Hildreth has purchased Sea Beach from J. E. Madden. This son of Martha Santa and Sea Spray showed promising trials in the early spring and Mr. Hildreth expects that he will develop into a useful sort of a racer.

Trainer R. C. Benson of the James Butler stable refused to allow jockey Borel to ride Pebbles in the Carter Handicap at Aqueduct Monday because he failed to make his riding weight of 109 pounds on Miss Puzzle in the Clover Stakes.

Max Hirsch declared at Aqueduct Monday that the facts in the purchase of Norse King, winner of the Brooklyn Derby had not been made public. "I obtained Norse King for $375 last summer at a dispersal sale at Belmont Park, and at the same time I got Pennyrock for $125. This brought the total to $500, and the majority of people appear to think I gave the latter sum for Norse King alone." Mr. Hirsch has had an interesting career. Starting out as an exercise boy, he is now one of the most successful trainers, as his handling of Norse King shows. As a jockey, Hirsch was one of the best boys at the post in the country and his judgment of pace was excellent.

CORRECTION OF PRICES TRANSPPOSED.

By a vexatious error in transmission by telegraph, the mutual prices of Little Father and Roscoe Goose in the case of their dead heat race at Latonia July 5, were transposed. The correct return of the $2 mutuels was Roscoe Goose, $4.80 straight, $4.00 place, $3.10 show; Little Father, $3.99 straight, $3.50 place, $2.80 show.

FORT ERIE GOING MUCH IMPROVED.

Sea Lord Defeats Good Band of Canadian-Breds—Haria Beats Vosges—Gossip of the Track.

Fort Erie, Ont., July 7.—There was a decided improvement in the going at the Fort Erie track this afternoon. The footing was in fairly good condition, although still a little lumpy and slow. Some stirring finishes were in order and all winners in some of the races remained in doubt until in the final strides.

J. E. Seagram's Sea Lord ran a good race in the feature of the day, a handicap at three-quarters for horses foaled in the Dominion of Canada. Some of the best Canadian-breds in training went to the post in this race and it was marked by a hot pace from the start. Slipper Day held a good lead until well into the homestretch, where she began to tire, and Sea Lord, finishing fast and resolutely, wore the tiring leader down and beat her by a head in the last couple of strides.

King Cotton, winner of the opening race, had to be hard ridden to beat the fast coming Lenavall by a head. Peggy L., after several disappointments, made good when she won the second and Haria won a lucky race when she beat Vosges in the third. The latter was taken wide all the way and covered much more ground than the winner, which slipped through on the inside when entering the homestretch.

W. P. Reed has turned his horses over to A. Ewing, who will train them in the future. Ewing formerly trained the horses owned by R. F. Carman. The string he will handle for Mr. Reed includes Golden Plume, Rosewater, Breakers and Northern Light.

The horses Ezmont and Gentlewoman, the property of the Ottawa Stable, has been turned over to E. J. Salt, who will train them in the future. C. Ross, who is connected with the Connaught Park Jockey Club, was a visitor at the Fort Erie track this afternoon. His mission here was to consult with Joseph MacManus in regard to the fall meeting at the Ottawa track.

George M. Hendrie, who came on to attend the meeting of the stewards of the Canadian Racing Associations, returned to Detroit tonight. He reports everything in readiness for the opening of the meeting at Windsor next week.

Des Drosen was an arrival from Kentucky. He will remain for a few days before leaving for Windsor.

At the meeting of the stewards, which was held yesterday, trainer H. Bowers was denied privileges on all tracks of the Canadian Racing Associations. It was given out that the ruling was made for the best interests of the sport.

J. U. Storde reports that a division of his stable, including Patty Regan, Minda, Trovato and Billie Baker has been sent to the Blue Bonnets track at Montreal to be rested up until fall. Frontier and Jabot will be left at Fort Erie at the conclusion of the present meeting.

Al Luzader is here from Kentucky with jockey W. Meehan. He is making the lad's engagements. Meehan is a free lance and rides at 100 pounds.

Jockey Ward was suspended for the meeting by the stewards yesterday and his case referred to the Canadian Racing Associations for further action. Ward, who had the mount on Foddlings in the fifth race, is accused of striking Jim L. over the head with his whip and also attempting to take hold of Jim L.'s bridle during the running of the race.

The steeplechase Decathlon came out of his race on Tuesday badly beaten, which accounts for his defeat. The chances of the horse starting again in the near future are slight.

Jockey F. Coleman, who was suspended by Judge Murphy at the Ottawa meeting, has been restored to good standing.

Showers followed the running of the seventh race today.

SOME STRICT RULES FOR NEW ORLEANS.

Management of Fair Grounds Take Measures Designed to Ensure High-Class Meeting Next Winter.

New Orleans, La., July 7.—Although it is a long time before the opening of the winter meeting at New Orleans January 1 next, the Business Men's Racing Association, through its manager, Joseph A. Murphy, is already formulating plans for what promises to be the greatest winter race meeting ever held in the United States.

Mr. Murphy realizes that to insure permanency and success the racing must be built all over from the ground up and is contemplating some drastic reforms that will purge the sport of all its objectionable features and leave it practically invulnerable to attack. These reforms will be carefully thought out during the summer. The policy of the association will be to as far as possible bring everyone connected with the racing directly under the surveillance of the officials and everyone will be held strictly to account not only in respect to the racing, but for personal conduct as well. As the first move in carrying out this policy, Mr. Murphy has asked the directors for 300 additional stalls and a kitchen built on modern plans that will feed 500 persons. No one stabled outside the grounds will be permitted to participate in the racing nor will badges be issued to them. This is for the purpose of a double purpose, it is usually the poorer class of owners who stable outside the grounds and with lily paid help the danger of an annoyance arising to the neighborhood is one that the association is anxious to avoid. With the increased stable room there will be 1,000 stalls which will take care of 800 horses, which is as many as are necessary for all purposes and all that can pay their way.

Then, too, this plan will enable the manager to select the men who are to race at the Crescent City. Manager Murphy has a book containing a list of those he considers undesirable. Those owners who run their horses for betting purposes only, with poolroom connections and agents in other cities, will be conspicuous by their absence. No horses will be taken off the cards by the association and no accounts will be carried on the books. While the management has a soft spot for unfortunate horsemen its purpose is to bring to New Orleans only the best class of horsemen who can pay their way and who will not be left stranded at the close of the meeting, and in addition each week the medical department will make an inspection of the grounds to note the conditions at the stables and report where they are unsanitary. After this service has been paid for on the part of the jockey and trainers' fund the balance, as last year, will be donated to the Charity Hospital. Manager Murphy already has received applications for 500 stalls.

WELL ORGANIZED AT SAN FRANCISCO.

Further progress in the way of a restoration of racing to San Francisco was effected on Wednesday of last week, concerning which the San Francisco Chronicle of July 1 said:

"Permanent organization of the Golden Gate Thoroughbred Breeders' Association, which will conduct the thirty days' running meeting on the exposition track, was effected last night at a session held in the green room of the St. Francis Hotel. It was also announced that a committee from the association consisting of Charles T. Boots and James C. Nealon had met with a committee of the exposition directors, including R. B. Hale, Henry T. Scott and John Britton, and had closed the deal for the use of the track.

BONNY LASSIE, after being under stout restraint in the early running, passed the leaders at his rider's leisure and was only cantering at the finish. THORNHILL raced on the extreme outside of the leaders throughout and tired. The winner was entered for $1,500; no bid.

"This absolutely clinches the race meeting that will follow close on the heels of the Reno meeting. In addition to the usual charge of fifty cents to enter the exposition grounds, the Breeders' Association will charge a daily admission of $1 for entering the track, which will include a seat in the grandstand.

"While it was determined the first of the week that Charles W. Clark would act as president and James C. Nealon as secretary, other officers were left open. The entire list is as follows: President, Charles W. Clark; first vice-president, J. H. Rossiter; second vice-president, Dr. D. C. Jenkins; third vice-president, Judge E. P. McDaniel; treasurer, R. M. Tobin; secretary, J. C. Nealon; board of directors to include above named officers, together with the following: R. Porter Ashe, C. T. Boots, W. W. Dupee, F. J. Carolan, H. T. Griffin, Captain John Barneson, Charles Patters, W. F. Humphrey, W. H. Moffat, R. J. MacKenzie, Dr. H. S. Kover, Dr. A. P. Tate, J. D. Grant, J. Cheever Cowdin and Jack Miller.

"Membership in the association will be limited to seventy-five, and the books will remain open a short time, although there are plenty of applications. The annual meeting is scheduled for the second Monday in January, but a special meeting is to be held next Tuesday night.

"Constitution and by-laws of the usual order were adopted."

The same newspaper of the later date of July 3, gave the following additional details of measures decided upon: "At a conference yesterday between President Charles W. Clark and Secretary James C. Nealon of the Golden Gate Thoroughbred Breeders' Association, it was decided that a $5,000 stake would be run at the exposition race meeting on Admission day, September 9. The officials of the breeders' association plan to try out the new stake with $5,000 and in course of time add to it to make it one of the richest in the country. The event will be the means of attracting some of the good handicappers horses from the east to try for the honors of being the first

OLD-TIME MUTUEL METHODS.

There is a vast difference between the improved mutuel machines operated today on the Kentucky tracks and those installed when this system of betting was first introduced on the race courses of America. The devices as now operated with the late improvements devised by John Hachmeister at Douglas Park form an interesting comparison to those of long ago. In the old times there were only one or two booths at which tickets were cashed and for a speculator to get his winning money quickly it was necessary to place himself at the mercy of ticket scalpers, some of whom waxed fat at this business.

For a long time only $5 tickets were sold in the machines and those were only on a horse to win, the devices being in operation for several years before place and show betting was introduced. In the throng at Douglas Park one day this season was an old-time friend of Major Drummond, the original calculator of the pari-mutuel machines in this country, and it may be noted that the figuring of winning tickets today is done by the same system of calculation that Major Drummond introduced more than forty years ago. Said this old-timer: "Never will I forget the scalpers operating in the old days. There were three of them. One was a Jew known as 'Jew John'; another was an old-timer from Nashville named Langford, and the other was an Italian named Dominick Colizza. They furnished much amusement in their eagerness to beat each other in business and cut rates continually to outdo each other."

To discredit each other with their patrons they would make all kinds of charges, but in spite of all their business rivalry, off the race track they were good friends. They went around with a handbag strapped over their shoulders, in which they kept their bills to pay off with and to hold the tickets which they cashed. After the race was settled up they took the tickets they had accumulated to the cashier's window and had them redeemed. It can be said to their credit that they conducted the scalping business in such a manner that no complaint ever reached the track management, though many sucker players were scalped by them and were none the wiser. They always had an alibi if a victim called them, and at once made all claims good, keeping complaints from reaching the management.

"What Langford regarded the worst accusation ever made against him by his business rivals was that he had cashed a railroad ticket for a mutuel card, and it is said that such a happening actually occurred. Some players caught him in a rush and having such a card looking like a mutuel ticket, put it through. The amount was trifling, but it made him the butt of his rivals for a long time.
"These three characters have long since disappeared from the race tracks, but the old timers will never forget them. Their like will never be seen again, as they belong to the past."

APPEARANCES ARE SOMETIMES DECEPTIVE.

Veteran followers of racing will recall with considerable relish an amusing incident in connection with the great Col. Jimmie Keene, which occurred before the famous horse had raced. The late Doc Streett, known to turfmen from coast to coast, had an understanding with the late James R. Keene by which he would get the horses that did not measure up to the Keene standards for his own use on the tracks. Frequently Streett secured a performer of more than ordinary merit through this channel, as in the case of Big Ben. But the fact remained that there was usually some physical defect attached to the Keene cast-offs which went the doctor's way.

One day Doc Streett was standing in the paddock at Sheephead Bay talking with a friend, when a stable boy led Colin by on a slow walk. The future champion had a blemish on his hind leg known to horsemen as a bog spavin, and Streett, noticing the marks usually, concluded it was a serious physical defect.

"That there horse," he told his friend, with a nod in the direction of Colin, "is the sort of a no-account cripple Jimmie Keene used to slip me."

In later years, after the Commando offspring had won renown, a reference to this incident in the hearing of Doc Streett was invitation to do battle.

TWO FINE MARES FOR WICKLIFFE STUD.

A valuable addition to the bloodstock interests of Kentucky has been recently made through the purchase of two Col. Jimmie Keene's selections by the famous Wickliffe Stud. The mares were bought through Mr. W. Allison, of the London Sportsman, and Mr. McKimney was doubtless influenced in his choice of a representative by the rare success which resulted from Mr. Allison's selections for the late James R. Keene. The mares and their foals are: Tananumass, chestnut, 1910, by Grey Leg—Amphoraria, by Amphion; second dam Spinning Jenny, by Kendal, next dam by St. Serf, and chestnut colt by John G. Gaunt.
Tornowh, brown, 1910, by Tornowh—Papola by Tornowh, next dam Poppy, by Peter; next dam Glenrosa by Blair Athol, and brown filly by Collar. These mares arrived in Lexington Thursday of last week and were immediately sent to Kingston Farm. They are both in foal to Javelin, son of Spearmin and Full Cry by Flying Fox.

DEPLORES LOSS OF HIGH-CLASS MARES.

Major General Scott Institutes Movement for Embargo on Foreign Shipments—Likes Thoroughbred.

Major General Hugh L. Scott, Chief of Staff of the United States Army, is one of those who believe that there should be some check on the shipment of mares from this country to the continent for war purposes. General Scott knows the needs of the cavalry perfectly, as it was in this particular branch of the service that he has been most actively engaged, and there is no man in the army more competent to discuss the question on its merits, as he has been stationed at various points in the west and southwest where cavalry must prove their worth daily.

"I am much disturbed," said he one day recently at his office in the War Department, "at the figures issued from time to time showing the number of horses that agents of the belligerent nations are shipping to Europe, and the situation is particularly alarming when you consider that quite a large percentage of these animals are mares. Of course, they are taking many mares of a type that we can well afford to part with, but there must also be desirable for us that we cannot afford to lose. Great Britain cleaned us up pretty thoroughly on material for remount purposes when the Boer war was on, but with this stupendous conflict of indeterminate length, nobody knows what our plight will be if we do not take steps to preserve our breeding stock. I have communicated with the Secretary of War, the Quartermaster General and the Department of Agriculture with a view to having Congress place an embargo on the shipment of mares of the type required for our purposes, and I am hopeful that action will be taken at the earliest possible moment."

"How could it be handled? Who would pass upon the type to be retained?" General Scott was asked. "The Department of Agriculture has charge of whatever experimental work in horse breeding the government is now engaged upon," responded the General, "and they should pass upon all mares offered for shipment abroad. I know it is a big work, but it is of paramount importance. If Congress will authorize the transfer of this work to the War Department we shall be delighted to undertake it. It is a branch of the service which essentially belongs to the army, as we know the type that is best qualified for our needs, and we could take the steps necessary to establish it in the quickest possible time."

"What is your idea of type for cavalry remounts?" the Major General was asked. "A horse of from 15.2 to 16 hands with from one-half to three-quarters of his blood in his veins for the officer and somewhat smaller for the balance of the service," was the reply. "He should have the feet and legs that would enable him to negotiate any country. This I would consider an absolute qualification. Horses like this should have the courage to endure any hardship, and my experience has taught me that when bred along these lines they are ready for duty when other horses are faded and useless. Only horses of the greatest courage and stamina can stand the requirements of cavalry work in a great many sections of the United States, particularly in the southwest and south. Speed is, of course, another qualification, and it goes without saying that they would possess it if bred along the lines indicated. I am aware that the task of producing cavalry remounts is a much greater task today than when racing was going on unimpededly in so many portions of the country, and the size, bone and dispositions required for the work were at our hand, and it is to be deplored that so much of the blood which it had taken more than a century to establish was lost to the country. With a returning market, however, for thoroughbreds for our purposes, I am hopeful that the cavalry stock and I am told that many prominent Americans who have been racing abroad are endeavoring to make arrangements for the return of their racing and breeding studs. This should give a tremendous impetus to the breeding industry, especially when it is remembered that European countries are inevitably come to us for material with which to replenish their decimated studs."

General Scott was asked what he thought of the complaints registered by breeders who maintain that they cannot produce a desirable cavalry remount horse and make a profit at the maximum of $175 the Government at present pays for three-year-olds in the autumn.

"I have seen it stated that breeders in the east cannot place such a horse on the market at the figure quoted," was the general's reply, "and if this is so, a higher price should be paid—a figure that such an animal would command in any of our open markets should be satisfactory all around. The government doesn't want those who breed horses to do so at a loss. There should be every assistance given this work. There is no more patriotic form of endeavor than the breeding of good horses, especially those of the trooper type, of which we have so few at present. The bidding of a fair price for these horses should stimulate breeding tremendously all over the United States."

"How many cavalry remounts would you require for present needs?" General Scott was next asked. "Two thousand annually," was the reply, "and a great many more in case of emergency. We should have breeding farms modeled after those of foreign countries which have made a study of the work and which realize to the fullest its tremendous possibilities in periods of peace as well as war. It is a part of their general program of preparedness."

In commenting upon the type of stallions to be used in producing this work, General Scott said: "I prefer the thoroughbred above all others, because of his propensity. The horses chosen should possess in a marked degree those attributes and characteristics which we desire to establish in the type we are endeavoring to create as being ideal for our requirements. We have a number of these horses at Front Royal and other points at present, thanks to the generosity of public-spirited breeders, and now that racing is being resumed in New York, where the Jockey Club has its headquarters, there will perhaps be offers of other sires, though the government should pursue the same course as France, Germany and other foreign countries and buy stallions wherever they find individual specimens desirable for the work. It is better to buy from foreign sources and take considerable money, but if the government will supply the funds we will furnish the horses and establish the type."

RACING HAS CHANGED WITH THE TIMES.

Racing is a wonderfully different affair to what it used to be. In the days of Frith, Leach and Dickens, and that was after Lord George Bentinck had brought about miracles in the way of reform, no race course was complete without its savagery. Welching if not common, was frequent, while pocket-picking and brawling were practically a part of the pastime. Old Joe Popp, a veteran Yorkshire pugilist, who is still in the flesh and a resident of Canada, has frequently been traveling abroad, and now that he took on all corners. Even the great Derby has lost a good deal of its character. There is none of the horse-play and recklessness that was once regarded as a legitimate feature. When people took to going down by train instead of by road, which was formerly considered the proper mode of travel, the change commenced. No longer did young ladies of the academies line the walls and smile at the sometime rude chaff of the heedless. Then came the bicycle which helped to make driving hazardous. But the automobile has completed the transformation. There is still a certain amount of racing on the route, but the wide-open, frankly good-natured jollity has all but disappeared, in fact except for the high-class racing and the gathering of swell-down, there is little more fun in going to Epsom nowadays than there is in going to some near-by Canadian fairs.—H. GENERAL NEWS NOTES OF THE DAY.

A London dispatch of yesterday says: "British forces have assumed the offensive in Flanders after a long period of inactivity on both sides. The enemy subsequently endeavored to deliver several infantry attacks, but not one was successful in coming as far as our trenches. Moved down by our artillery fire and that of our rifles and machine guns, most of our assailants never left the field of battle. During this action batteries of the enemy on the Asiatic coast fired without interruption. A Turkish cruiser, steaming between Malindi and Chanak, also took part in the engagement. On several occasions aviators of the enemy bombarded our lines. At the end of the day a group of about fifteen British and French aviators flew over the Turkish aerodrome at Dardanelles, threw down several bombs and were successful in striking the principal hangar with a big bomb."

Of fighting on the Isonzo a Vienna dispatch of yesterday says: "Fighting in the Gorizia district on Monday developed into a general battle, with the attack made by the third Italian army. About four hostile corps advanced under the protection of a formidable artillery fire against our front from the bridgehead of Gorizia to the sea. The attacks were completely repulsed. The enemy suffered terrible losses. Thanks to the praiseworthy attitude of our troops, especially the infantry, all the positions remained in our hands, notwithstanding the numerical superiority."

Yesterday's baseball results—National League: Chicago 7, Pittsburgh 4; New York 5, Philadelphia 4 (first game); Philadelphia 1, New York 0 (second game); Brooklyn 4, Boston 3 (first game); American League: New York 13, Philadelphia 5 (first game); Philadelphia 6, New York 5 (second game); Boston 9, Washington 4 (first game); Boston 1, Washington 0 (second game); Federal League: Newark 5, Baltimore 3; Buffalo 3, Brooklyn 2.

A dispatch to the London Daily Mail from Rotterdam says Germany's latest surprise for the allies is automatic feed guns, which will fire much more rapidly than any hitherto known.
